

Complaints about the Conduct of Judicial Office Holders - Code of Practice issued by the Lady Chief Justice of Northern Ireland.

STATISTICAL RETURN FOR 2023

Statutory responsibility for complaints against members of the judiciary as well as Presidents and members of the tribunals rests with the Lord Chief Justice who in 2006 published a Code of Practice setting out arrangements for investigating complaints identified in the Code.

Court users and the public generally are entitled to expect holders of judicial office to maintain high standards of personal conduct. While the Chief Justice is confident that courts and tribunal judiciary have demonstrated such standards in the past and will continue to do so, the Code provides for comprehensive procedures to address any serious or substantive complaints received and to do so within timescales set out in the Code.

It is important to emphasise that the Code applies only to judicial conduct and not to judicial decisions, the process of reasoning underpinning such decisions and the exercise of judicial functions generally. Such matters may only be challenged through the legal processes available.

1. Table A below provides information by judicial tier of judicial complaints received by the Chief Justice for the 2023 reporting period together with 3 previous years for comparative purposes.
